ABOUT CONNEMARA

For more than three decades, the Connemara Conservancy has been at the forefront of land conservation and environmental education in Texas. We work closely with farmers, ranchers and other landowners as well as city officials and developers to improve our quality of life by protecting and preserving one of our most important assets—our land. We currently protect more than 6,000 acres of open space throughout North Texas with requests for help coming in almost weekly.

In addition, students, families and organizations participate in our restoration and environmental education programs each year.

A HERITAGE OF LAND CONSERVATION
The Connemara Conservancy was founded in 1981 by Frances Williams and her daughter, Amy Monier, as one of the first land trusts in Texas. Ahead of her time, Frances was concerned that her family’s farmland was in jeopardy of succumbing to urban sprawl.

Her original donation of the 72-acre Meadow Preserve on the border of Plano and Allen guaranteed that future generations would be able to experience the great outdoors in all its natural beauty. From that beginning, Connemara has grown to become one of the state’s recognized leaders in land conservation and environmental education.

LAND PROTECTION
Connemara protects the land in many ways. Through conservation easements, land donations, and other means, we help landowners find ways to preserve their property for generations to come. We also work with forward-thinking developers and local governments who understand the crucial role that open space plays in improving a community’s quality of life.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS
Connemara offers a wide range of educational programs for students, families and civic organizations, including nature walks, bird walks, astronomy walks, open houses, workshops, restoration projects and more.

SUPPORTING OUR CAUSE
As a 501c(3) not-for-profit organization, we rely solely on the support of individuals and businesses. In addition to financial contributions, Connemara has a wide range of volunteer opportunities available. From educational programs to restoration projects to helping orchestrate our one-of-a-kind fundraising events, there are many fun ways to be part of Connemara.

If environmental education and the protection of our vanishing countryside for generations to come is important to you, we encourage you to visit connemaraconservancy.org to learn more about how you can play a role in this critical effort.
